DEPARTMENT OVERVIEW

The Utah Department of Community and Culture (DCC) fosters a positive community climate through financial and technical assistance statewide. DCC appreciates that every community has a unique identity, local culture and diverse needs.

This Technical and Financial Resource Guide is a directory of the technical support, grants and funding, and other resources available through the Department's six divisions. These provisions include:

- Financial assistance for artists in residence
- Grants to assist low-income and homeless families and individuals
- Programs to improve communities through volunteerism
- Repatriation of human remains found on state and non-federal lands
- Assistance to ensure state agencies meet the needs of the ethnic community
- Grants to further cultural heritage development
- Services and materials accessible to the blind and disabled

DCC's vision statement affirms that "it will be a dynamic catalyst for creating cultural change," and the Department recognizes its role as a steward in providing valuable community resources for future generations.

This Guide is also available online at www.community.utah.gov, DCC's portal to its divisions. For information not found in this directory and specific to a DCC division, please call:
